

AMY PRESSMAN, ENCAUSTICS

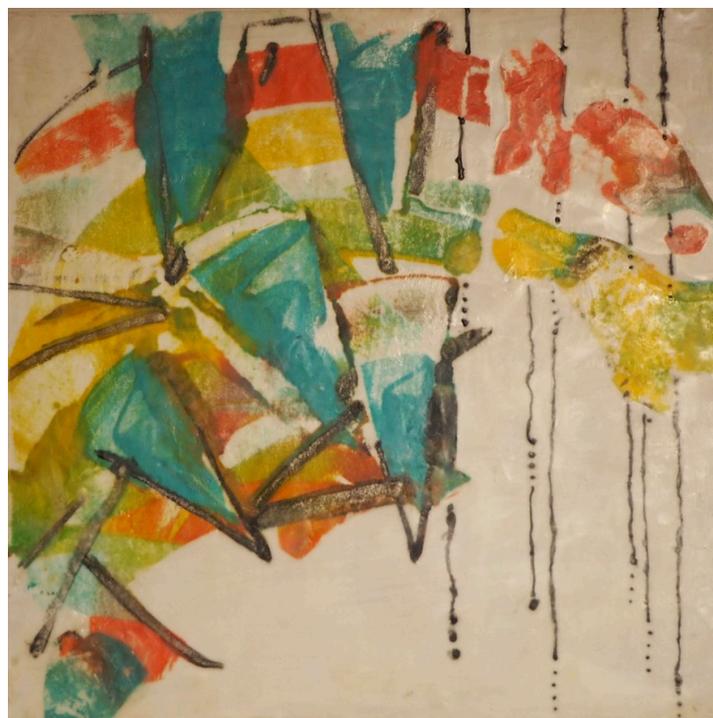

Walking on the Moon, Arches, Utah, 2019

Amy Pressman has always loved nature and drawing. She received her BFA from University of Massachusetts in Interior Design and an MA from Cornell in Design and Environmental Analysis. At 40 she took a summer off to teach herself watercolor painting. Happily marching off to the fields behind her home for two months, she found great joy. The move to the Berkshires has brought her back to her first love - nature and drawing. Now spending a majority of her time cataloging the beauty of her surroundings and exploring both realistic portrayals and abstractions in encaustics and watercolor.

Encaustics bring a new series of explorations of multi media including photography, collage and watercolor enhanced with the encaustic wax medium

Exhibits include the Colonial Theatre Pittsfield, Gallery 35 Great Barrington, Berkshire Botanical Gardens Stockbridge and art shows in Albany, Pittsfield, West Stockbridge, and Great Barrington.
